New Auto License Tags Here

HUGE STACKS OF 1955 LICENSES ARE PILED UP at the Automobile Club, 126 Main Street, but Deputy Registrar Howard C. Allen and his staff cannot start selling them until March 1. Deadline for new tags will be April 1, and passenger car fees will again be $10. Allen is shown holding the first and last numbers in the series of 8,000 passenger car tags allotted to the county. He foresees an increase in sales over 1954, when 11,034 licenses of all types brought in $204,817.92 at the local office, which is the only distribution point in Fayette County. 17 Men Killed As Fire Hits Hotel In Chicago's Skid Row

CHICAGO (AP)—Fire roared through a crowded Skid Row hotel here today killing 17 men.

Firemen probing the still smoldering embers sought to recover "at least three more bodies" hours after the blaze was extinguished. The tragic Lincoln Day fire also injured 12 hotel guests and two firemen.

Only six of the dead were identified immediately. Some of the dead were victims of smoke inhalation and exposure. Others were burned almost beyond recognition.

More than 200 residents of the Barton Hotel in the five-story brick building fled into sub-zero weather.

Firemen helped scores down ladders and fire escapes from the upper floors. The 365-room hotel occupied the top four floors and an employee said 245 rooms were occupied.

This is sort of an open letter to the French National Assembly; please, please get yourselves a new premier as soon as you can!

The ups and downs of the French government have been echoed in upheavals in the Washington C. H. Junior High School and in the Record-Herald office.

It all happened like this:

William McCullough, who teaches two seventh grade Social Science classes, was talking to his pupils about the recent convulsion in Russia that resulted in the replacement of Malenkov by Bulganin as premier. Then McCullough asked the kids whether they knew of any other recent changes in heads of governments.

They didn't seem to have heard that the government of French Premier Mendes-France had fallen last Friday. So McCullough asked them to find out who was premier of France.

"I was just playing a trick on them," their teacher admitted. "There wasn't any French premier and the assembly is still trying to find the man for the job."

But when the kids asked how to find out who the premier is, McCullough decided to give them a lesson in research methods. "Try the public library," he said.

And he advised them that the "Record-Herald has something besides a funny sheet. . . . Look in the paper," he ordered sternly. "If you can't find it, ask somebody down at the office where to find it."

That's where we in the R-H news room came in. The phone started to ring here and has been ringing ever since.

On girl called and asked, like all the others: "Who's the premier of France?" When she was told there wasn't any, she said: "But I've got to have his name for class tomorrow!"

So we're doing what we can: Please you men of the French Assembly get going!

Judge Lovell Has Busy Session

Drunken Driver Is Given The Usual

Judge William A. Lovell, faced a busy session when he took the bench at the city building at 9 A. M. Saturday for this first session of Municipal court at the newly appointed Judge.

Many of those who had been arrested and were to face the charges in a municipal court, had been notified to appear, with the result that there was a full house.

One of the first cases was that of Paul D. Zurfach, 23, of near Sabina who was arrested by Sheriff Orland Hays last Sunday on a charge of driving while drunk.

Zurfach was fined $200 and costs, given 10 days in jail and his drivers license suspended for one year.

Harry Davis, 18, city, charged with operating an automobile without owner's consent, was held to the grand jury under $500 bond.

Sheriff Hays had brought about the arrest of Davis in Pickaway County, and brought him to the county jail here. He is accused taking a car owned by James William Joseph of Frankfort, which was parked at the Pennington Bakery parking lot, wrecking the car on Rawling Street and having it pulled back to the parking lot.

Other cases, most of them of a minor nature were being taken up by the Judge Lovell at the Saturday forenoon session.

Happiness Solved

STUEBENVILLE (AP)—Sheriff Clarence Ebbetts found out why his jail prisoners were so happy. James Pate, 39, was selling liquor to prisoners while he was a trusty.

70 Armed Red China Junks Mass Off Island Of Matsu

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red China massed a fleet of armed motorized junks off the Nationalist outpost island of Matsu today, the Defense Ministry said, in an ominous new threat right on the heels of Chiang Kai-shek's peaceful evacuation of the Tachens.

The appearance of more than 70 armed junks along the China Coast near Foochow posed a possible new crisis in the Formosa area.

In Washington, the State Department announced that U. S. Navy and Air Forces which protected the evacuation of the Tachens "will now resume their normal operations but will be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously undertaking to facilitate attack upon Formosa and will be prepared to take appropriate military action if required."

Two hundred miles north of Formosa, the Tachen Islands were left devastated and empty.

The last landing ship carrying a

U. S. naval beach party and a few Nationalist soldiers pulled off a mud flat with high tide today. It had been stuck almost nine hours.

DURING THAT tense time, the mighty U. S. 7th Fleet armada of 75 warships and circling planes remained in the area, guarding against any premature attempt by Red Chinese to take over the empty islands.

The Communists, eight miles away on Yikiangshan Island and 14 miles away on the mainland, made no attempt to interfere with the final stage of the evacuation.

The seas calmed and the wind died down as the fleet began to pull out. The weather was brisk. The windup completed six days 40,000 or more civilians, guerrillas and Nationalist troops were removed from the Tachens, the Yushans, 35 miles northeast, and Pishan, 32 miles southwest.

The evacuation was climaxed by a tremendous pyrotechnic display last night as demolition teams touched off piles of ammunition.

Murder Trial Here Recessed For Week End

John Southward May Take Witness Stand on Monday

The defense will probably wind up its case in the John Southward murder trial Monday with presentation of three more witnesses and the defendant, himself, on the stand. Defense Attorney Paul Herbert said Friday after the case had been adjourned for the week-end.

The State will then have the opportunity to present its rebuttal witnesses, probably on Tuesday. The defense may also call additional witnesses. Final arguments may be made by Wednesday, after which the jury will retire to decide John Southward's fate—which could be death.

Court resumed after Friday's noon recess with Harry Hidy, who had admitted acquaintance with the slain Mrs. Ruth Southward in the morning session, still on the stand.

Under questioning by Herbert, Hidy related that on one occasion in the fall of 1952, Southward had seen him (Hidy) and Mrs. Southward together on Washington Avenue. Hidy said he and Ruth had been to a drive-in movie together that night.

The witness related that while he and Mrs. Southward were in his car near the Southward home, John Southward approached in a truck. Mrs. Southward left Hidy's car and began walking toward her home at a rapid gait, Hidy said. Her husband accosted her then the Southwards walked to the truck which Southward was driving. The witness said he drove away as the Southwards approached the truck. He said one of the Southward children was in the truck.

HIDY HAD testified in the morning session that on one occasion in the winter of 1953-54 he had accompanied Mrs. Southward home and had stayed at the Southward home from 10 or 11 P. M. until about 5 A. M. in the morning. He testified he had spent the time from 2 or 3 A. M. until 5 A. M. sleeping on the same bed with Mrs. Southward. Mrs. Southward was wearing blue jeans throughout this time, Hidy stated.

He testified that he had run out the back door past the defendant who was on the back porch, and ran up the alley "as fast as I could."

In cross-examination, assistant prosecutor Hark asked Hidy if he ran up the alley because "you thought Jack would shoot you." Herbert's objection was sustained and the exception noted. Hidy then said he ran up the alley because "I was scared."

Both sides then agreed to a recess of court for the week end as had been decided upon previously. Before dismissing the jury, Judge Case instructed the nine men and four women on it not to discuss the case or read or listen to it.

After the jury had been dismissed Judge Case conferred with council relative to the time to be allotted to each side for the closing arguments to the jury after all testimony is heard.

Judge Case announced that insofar as he is concerned there will be no limit to the time, but stated he was ready to consider any reasons or suggestions. No suggestions were made.

Southward is being tried for first degree murder in the Sept. 8 shooting of his wife, who died two days later in a Columbus hospital. The defense is maintaining that the shooting was accidental.

New Maid Admits Killing Employer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A 25-year-old maid, employed at the home only three days, admitted she bludgeoned the frail wife of multimillionaire Samuel Hayden to death with an ax, police say.

Mrs. Peggy King admitted hacking Mrs. Katie Hayden, 71, repeatedly last Wednesday after an argument over how to cut a bone from a roast, police said. The maid was booked on suspicion of murder early today.

Autopsy surgeons estimated Mrs. Hayden had been hit 20 to 30 times on the head and neck. Brutality of the act led detectives to believe that the killer was motivated by revenge or hatred.

Red Cross Drive Head Named

PLANS FOR THIS YEAR'S RED CROSS fund-raising campaign in Fayette County during March were outlined by the chapter's executive committee at its meeting with the 1955 campaign chairman, Joe Peters, in the Chamber of Commerce office Friday afternoon. On the committee (above, left to right, front) are Edgar Zimmerman, Red Cross field representative; Chairman Peters; Mrs. Fred Cahill, chapter secretary and Mrs. Fred Rost and (back row, left to right) Mrs. Sam Parrett; Thomas Mark, blood program chairman; Don Wood, chapter president and Fred Rost. The committee agreed an effort would be made to complete the campaign in three weeks. The quota for the county this year is $9,240 and that is an increase over last year's $8,700 goal. The campaign missed last year's goal when only $7,200 was raised. During the discussion by the committee, it was brought out that the blood bank, which provided blood without charge to patients at Memorial Hospital here, will cost around $2,500-plus this year. Honeymooners in Crash Here

The slippery street and highways were responsible for a number of traffic accidents in Fayette County Friday and early Saturday.

For the most part, none of the wrecks was serious, except for property damage.

Sheriff Orland Hays and Deputy Bob McArthur investigated a few of the accidents, including one in which a pair of honeymooners were injured and their car demolished and also where a man skidded out of the city into the county, crashed into a building, finally landing in court on two charges.

The honeymooners, who reside at Johnsoa City, New York, were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Eugene Crandell, and were enroute from a motor trip to New Orleans, back home, were painfully injured when their car left Route 38 near "Cherry Hill" a mile south of Yates-ville, and was badly demolished. They were treated by Dr. Hammond, in Sedalia, for minor cuts and bruises.

Watson H. Green, 54, Dayton, was headed out Dayton Avenue when his car started cutting capers, and he literally skidded out of the city into the county and crashed into a building at the Sewel Trailer Court, damaging the building considerably and demolishing the front of his car. He was not badly hurt.

Police and the Sheriff investigated, and Sheriff Hays filed a charge of reckless operation and failure to have a driving license. Green furnished $150 bond for appearance in municipal court next Saturday.

Bobby Gene Webb, 23, Ypsilanti, Mich., on Route 70, at 3 A. M. Saturday, was painfully hurt when his car slipped from Route 70 just over the Fayette-Madison line in Madison County, and was damaged.

False Statements Tied To McCarthy

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvey Matusow, self-described ex-Communist and former FBI informer, says he was encouraged by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) to make false statements during the 1952 political campaign.

Matusow, testifying yesterday at a federal court hearing on a retrial motion by 12 convicted Communists, said he made "false statements," during the campaign of three years ago, and added:

"My manner of presentation and my theme was encouraged by Sen. Joseph McCarthy and, in fact, was at the best of McCarthy and made during the heat of a political campaign."

McCarthy had no comment.

Couple Observes 70th Anniversary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Antonio Benenati and his wife, Rosina, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary today. He is 93 and she 89.

"We've never had a quarrel," Benenati reported. "I've been a patient man. If things didn't go right, I was patient."

'Body' In Store Headless, Handless

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Investigating a burglary, police officer Grant Seeley saw a body lying behind a shattered glass window.

He picked up a radio microphone in his patrol car and called for an ambulance. "Someone's either fallen through the glass here, or been shot," he said.

Meanwhile, his partner, officer J. L. Smith, climbed through the window to help the victim. It had neither head nor hands.

"Cancel the ambulance," Smith called. "It's a store dummy."

1 Below Zero Is Uniform Temperature

Mercury Is Expected To Run 0-5 Again Tonight Over State

COLUMBUS (AP)—It was just plain frigid in Ohio today.

Steuenville had the lowest official temperature reading in the state this morning at 3 below zero. Zanesville had 2 below. Most other cities had a uniform 1 below.

Broken clouds over the state kept the mercury from plunging to record lows, the Weather Bureau reported. Forecasters said it would have hit "10 below for sure" had it not been for the clouds.

Prospects for tonight and early Sunday are for temperatures in the zero to 5 below range if skies are clear.

The Weather Bureau explained that whatever small amount of heat the earth accumulates during the day radiates rapidly if skies are clear, but the heat radiates more slowly under a cloud cover.

Weather stations reporting 1 below readings this morning were Toledo, Findlay, Dayton, Akron, Circleville, Columbus, Chillicothe, Washington, C. H. and Huntington, W. Va.

Cincinnati had even zero and Cleveland's low mark was 2 above.

HIGHWAYS EAST and north of a line marked by Sandusky, Bucyrus, Massillon and Youngstown were reported by the Highway Department to be slippery and hazardous because of snowdrifts and ice. The rest of the state's highways were reported slippery in spots.

The weekend's cold followed a generally mild spell with light rain over parts of the state. In Cincinnati, temperatures dropped 50 degrees from Thursday's high as the cold wave moved in.

At least one death was connected indirectly with the weather. Former Policeman Herbert L. Rocky, 73, of Miami, died yesterday of a heart attack while shoveling snow.

And the state highway patrol reported 17 accidents since yesterday, most of them due to slippery spots. There were no fatalities.

Columbus received three inches of snow, a record this winter. Youngstown and Zanesville reported four inches Friday. Logan measured six.

Clogged roads closed six rural schools near Chillicothe and shut down other schools in Scioto County.

Heavy snow drifts were reported near Toledo and Newark and in the hills of east-central Ohio.

Driving relief was slowed down by a shortage of salt for the treacherous roads. Dayton, Columbus and other cities reported salt shortages. New shipments were expected today.

The widespread cold wave clung tight over the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

THE ARCTIC air sent temperatures tumbling from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast.

Much of the South got the full sting of the icy blasts.

It was near zero in much of the Southeast and below zero in some places. Readings of zero and below were reported in Kentucky with 10 below in some mountain areas. It was near zero in parts of Virginia and Tennessee. The Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi also got the coldest weather of the winter.

It was freezing all the way to the Gulf Coast. Readings were in the 20s in many inland areas only a short distance from the coast.

At least 25 deaths were attributed to the cold and snow. The snow storms which hit much of the Midwest Thursday, swept into the Eastern third of the nation yesterday. Falls measured more than a foot in upstate New York.

Deaths were attributed to overexertion while shoveling snow and to accidents on icy highways. At least 17 men died in a Chicago Skid Row hotel fire.

The cold front, which dipped into Florida, brought sharp drops in temperatures since yesterday afternoon. Miami, which reported a high of 80 degrees yesterday, shivered early today in readings in the low 40s. The cold weather threatened vegetable and citrus crops. There was a similar threat to winter vegetable crops in the Rio Grande Valley.

Spring Barrow Show At London

Banquet Is Feature Of Annual Event

A bigger program, a new site and an all-Ohio Swine Banquet will mark the 1955 Ohio Spring Barrow Show. The show of the barrows on foot will be held on Feb. 26, in the new youth building on the Madison County Fairground at London.

Classes for individual barrows and pens of three (190 to 220-pound weights) will be shown in all pure breeds and in crosses. All breeds and crosses will compete in the class for pens of 10. An auction sale of the show barrows will be held immediately after the show.

As in previous spring barrow shows, the champions of the breed classes will compete in the carcass contest. This year, any exhibitor who does not have a champion may nominate one of his barrows to the carcass contest. All these carcass contest barrows will be dressed by Armour Co. in Columbus.

The carcasses will then be graded and the top-graded ones will be cut out at the meat laboratory, Ohio State University. The cut-out value will be computed. The winning carcasses will be shown at Plumb Hall, Ohio State University on Wednesday, March 2.

The audience will have a chance to do some judging this year. While the champions are compared on foot, the audience will mark cards rating the barrows in the order of their cut-out value. After the slaughter test, the scores will be rated and the winners will get their prizes at the carcass show.

PRECEDING the live show, the all-Ohio Swine Banquet will be held in the auditorium of the youth building on Friday night, February 25. Speaker at the banquet will be Carroll Plager, of George A. Hormel Company, Austin, Minnesota. Seating capacity will limit the size of the banquet to 300. It is to be a working hogman's party, neckties and coats optional. Many exhibitors will bring their barrows to London on the 25th and may come to the banquet in their working clothes.

Sponsor of the show is the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders Association, supported by the Ohio Swine Improvement Association and the state breed associations.

In this show, the hog producers feel that they have a project that will help to improve the quality of the Ohio market hog. This show gives the breeder and commercial producer a setting in which to study the ideal type, on foot and in the carcass. Entries for the show close February 16.

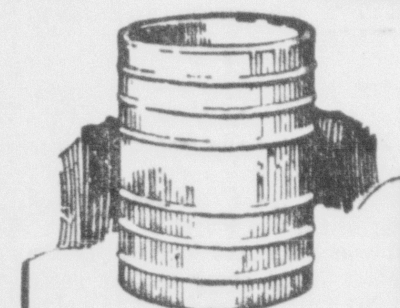

Detective 'Stuck' With Cabbage Load

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Detective Sgt. J. W. Wingate, stuck with a truckload of cabbage, bought 700 pounds of ice to keep it from spoiling and hopes he gets his money back.

The owner of the truck, C. W. Feltson, of Wilmington, N. C., telegraphed police yesterday that his driver phoned long distance saying he "misaid" the truck and ran up a big taxi bill trying to find it.

Wingate found the truck and its perishable cargo where it had been parked on a side street since Wednesday. The detective bought the ice and hopes the substitute driver arrives before it melts—and with the money to repay him.

A Farmer's Notebook

By THOMAS E. BERRY

When you get up some morning half sick and you don't want to work, try a cup of tea; have it very hot and be sure and add a little lemon juice. You'll be surprised and pleased at how it will help you.

You might like coffee better and the combination is pretty good; coffee at the beginning of a meal and tea when you are through and ready to go to work.

I won't charge you anything for this idea, that was given to me a good many years ago. You will find it practical and of great value to you.

THE DAIRY BULL

Don't trust a dairy bull. It may be tame and have a reputation for not harming anyone but it may become dangerous. As I go over southern Ohio in search of material for this column, it isn't unusual to find some very good and some very tame dairy bulls that are treated about like you treat your favorite dog. "You can trust this bull," is a statement that I often hear made, but it isn't true. You can't trust any dairy bull and it isn't wise to try to.

FEEDING LIVESTOCK IN WINTER

"My stock sure eats a lot of hay during this cold weather," a good southern Ohio farmer recently said. He's right and stock should be liberally fed but the feed should not be wasted.

"I feed my cows all the hay they want in racks but I don't feed them any more than they want," a very successful southern Ohio dairy man recently pointed out. "I almost make them pick their teeth with the straws that are left," he said.

When he took me into the barn he called attention to the barn floor. It was clean. "Some men walk around in chaff and hay almost knee-deep but I certainly don't do it. That's the way to waste feed," he said.

The feed you waste this way is the very best part of the hay, too, for most of it is portions of the leaves and the finer stems, the part that has the most protein.

OATS

It won't be very long until the time comes to sow oats. Sometimes you can use them in, in a wheat field where the stand is not very good, if you can find a time in March or early April to do it. Some of the best crop I have ever seen in southern Ohio were seeded this way.

GOOD SIGN

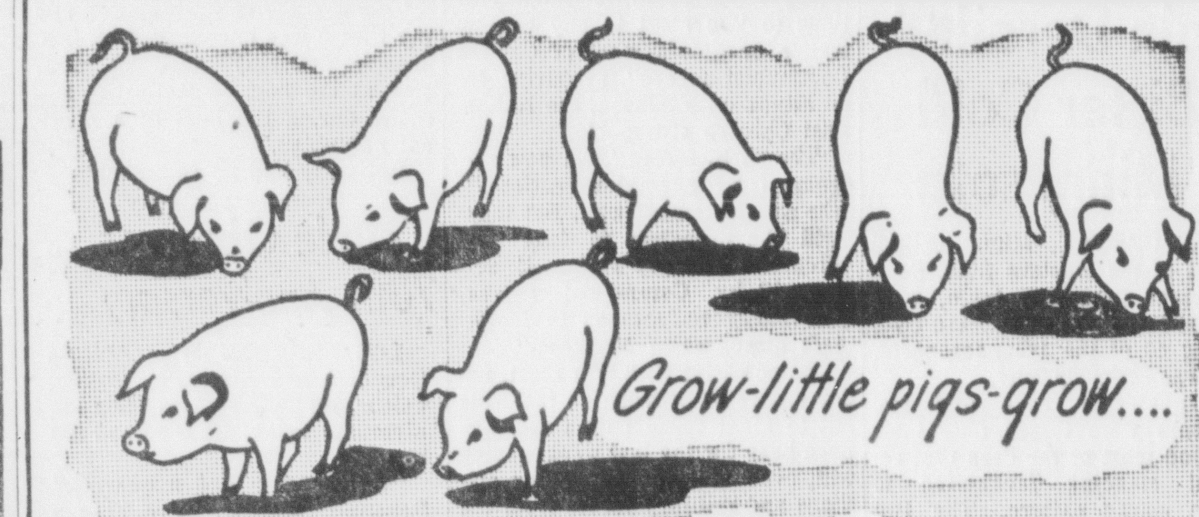

"Speed kills." This is a sign that I recently saw on a truck. If we can do as simple a thing as keep our speed down, it will take a lot of hazard out of driving, for when you are going fast and the unexpected happens, you may not have time to stop.

Farmers do not drive as much as men in other occupations, and at times they are in a hurry, and the hazard they are apt to overlook is "spotty ice," that may be pretty well covered by wheel tracks but (Please turn to Page Nine)

Young pigs will grow and grow as pigs never grew before if they are fed NEW Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 to 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth — and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

Ohio Corn-Fed Beef Featured

Plan Calls for New Labeling System

"Ohio choice corn-fed beef" may be featured for Ohio consumers if plans of Ohio cattlemen develop as they hope.

Ohio cattle feeders meeting in Findlay this week were seeking a label that will tell consumers that Ohio farmers produce choice beef. They want a labeling and grading program that will tell shoppers there is quality eating in every package carrying the label. Government grading is optional with meat packers.

A committee of feeders sought advice from a restaurant manager, a retail chain meat buyer, meat packers and market operators. The committee then voted to ask feeders in their counties to support a program to promote "Ohio corn-fed beef" of choice and prime grades.

A packer buyer told feeders that it is only in the last 25 years that choice beef has been widely distributed in this country. Twenty years ago about 75 percent of the meat sold was good grade and lower, he estimated. Today, 75 percent of it will grade good or better.

Pre-packaging is in the best interest of the beef industry, a retail chain meat buyer said. It is one reason beef now accounts for 35 percent of meat sales in their stores.

The shopper is boss at the meat counter and we must buy what she'll buy from us the retail buyer said. Their trade prefers a 600-pound choice beef carcass. We buy very little prime beef because there is too much waste and we also stay away from choice carcasses that are overly fat, he added.

Heifer beef of the same grade and with the same amount of fat is just as good as steer beef, packers and wholesale buyers agreed. However, heifer carcasses often carry more waste fat. Smaller heifer carcasses—500 pounds—seem most satisfactory.

Farmers in South Find Fortune

(Central Press Association) JACKSON, Miss. — What crude oil has done for Texas, pine oil is expected to do for the Deep South.

Whereas Texas millionaires have to "strike oil," southern tycoons find it waiting for them in an old pine stump. In the states where not long ago cotton was king, pine oil is rapidly becoming the No. 1 industry.

The reason for this phenomenon is that pine oil, a clear, fragrant liquid which at one time had none but industrial uses such as flotation of copper in mining, today has moved into the home, for cleaning, disinfecting and deodorizing.

Pine oil's uses are so numerous that hardly any home can do without it. Laundries, textile processors and rug cleaning establishments also use it.

It goes into paints, varnishes, inks, adhesives, insecticides, mosquito repellents, cattle sprays and even into ointments for treating sprains and insect bites. It is also said to kill many of the organisms that transmit contagious diseases. Derivates are used as perfume and cosmetic bases.

ALL THESE qualities, plus its pleasant odor, make pine oil disinfectants useful for schools, hotels, hospitals, theaters and the like—as well as for stables, chicken coops—or for washing pets.

Before the turn of the century, pine oil was virtually unknown. In 1900 Homer T. Yaryan built at Gulfport, Miss., the first commercially successful plant to recover pine oil from stumps. That plant founded a new industry, utilizing vast acreages of stumps left behind by loggers in the South.

In the year ending last March 31, the industry produced 8,592,500 gallons of pine oil in Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana. It is estimated that the business of treating stumps for their pine oil and other products will gross more than $600 million this year.

The oil is not found in living trees, but only in the stump and tap root after they have been in the ground for a number of years. The stumps are torn from the ground with bulldozers, ground into chips, treated with solvents, then distilled, much as petroleum products.

One of the world's largest manufacturers of pine oil preparations is a Jackson firm, which makes a disinfectant, cleanser and deodorizer. This concern is credited with a large part of the promotion for the gains during the last few years in the use of pine oil products in homes.

Six years ago, the firm's volume amounted to only about $77,000, since its pine oil items were sold mostly to janitors' supply houses. One person who has been instrumental in exploring the numerous uses of the disinfectant for the home is Howard S. Cohoon, who joined the organization in 1948.

AS A RESULT of his planning and foresight, the sales took a sharp upward turn. Last year's figures were 20 times those of 1948 and sales for the first half of this year have already topped those for the full year of 1953.

The Mississippi company encourages housewives to send them tips on the disinfectant's varied uses. As a result, a special chemical ingredient was recently added to it so that now it bleaches as well as cleans clothes.

Perhaps the first international use of pine oil as a disinfectant was during World War I. Manufacturers were puzzled at first when enormous quantities were ordered sent to England by the government.

England was suffering the worst of the German bombings at that time and found sanitation in her cities an enormous job. The use of pine oil as a disinfectant proved a valuable ally in this fight against disease.

With pine oil products in one out of every three homes in the United States today, it looks as if oil's well with the South's latest industrial boom.

Boosting Income From Small Farm

Suggestions Made To Little Farmers

More than 1,500,000 of the nation's farms are "too small" to provide the income that Americans expect, according to O. B. Jesness, head of the University of Minnesota's agricultural economics department.

"The volume of business from these small units," he said, "is not sufficient to adequately support the farm family."

One way to increase that volume of business is to acquire more land. Another way is to build up the productive power of the land already owned, he said.

Farm research men have found that most corn belt farms are producing only about half the crops they could profitably yield.

"BUILDING the land's productive power to make the soil realize its full crop yielding potential," it was said, "would increase net income more than buying or renting additional land."

"It would help reduce fixed costs of production. Farmers would get more bushels per acre employed, more bushels per agricultural implement and more bushels per acre. These are the three measures that economists consider in reckoning the efficiency and profitability of a farm."

Jesness pointed out that a farm's productive capacity can be built up to its practical level by adding commercial fertilizer to raise the soil's fertility level and by using other good management practices. These include the use of lime where needed, planting seed to fit the soil's productive capacity and its available water supply, growing crops on the land best suited to them and putting the other acres to uses for which they are best suited.

Diller Discusses Dogwood's Merits

Dogwood may add to the beauty of a forest in the springtime, but it's a pest so far as timber-producing trees are concerned, declares O. D. Diller of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

This tree will shade out young seedlings of more desirable trees because of its aggressive growth habits, Diller states. That means a lower volume of timber will be harvested in later years.

Diller, who is chairman of the Station's forestry department, made tests on ways of killing dogwood by using herbicides and brush killers. He learned that a 4 percent solution of 2,4,5-T in kerosene was quite effective in doing the job. A mixture of 1 gallon brush killer to 4 gallons of kerosene also withered the trees. The brush killer contained 0.31 pounds of 2,4-D and 0.5 pounds of 2,4,5-T per gallon.

Diller recommends using a 3 or 5 gallon knapsack sprayer with a wand attachment. This allows thorough coverage around the base of the tree. The trunk area from the root base to a height of 18 inches is the vital zone for spraying.

The forester estimates that on the basis of this test, a woodlot owner could eliminate dogwood trees for around 3 an acre including labor and material.

36 Farms in Madison County Have Fences of Living Roses

To prove again that there is "nothing new under the sun," a "rose living fence" was in use even before the U. S. Department of Agriculture was established. This information was found in the official report of the Commission of Patents on Agriculture for the year of 1855.

Paul Bangham, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), recently acquired this book and found, under the heading of "Live Fences," an interesting letter from Athens, Georgia.

"The single McCartney rose I found on farms m-k, an excellent fence. It was planted 4 to 8 feet apart with pailing and wire supports, and by layering and trimming the bottom shoots, in three years it will repel every intruder" is an interesting excerpt from this letter.

Now 100 years later, there have been 32 1/2 miles of multiflora rose fence planted on the farms of 36 cooperators of the Madison County Soil Conservation District. This has been done by the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

If this fence could be stretched out into one continuous line, it could begin at Plain City, go through London, and extend to Mt. Sterling and even over into Pickaway or Fayette Counties.

It has proved satisfactory as a living fence and is a good cover for wildlife on the 36 cooperators' farms. In addition to the fence, the program also included the planting of 17,875 trees and miscellaneous shrubs, the development of 43 acres of wild life area, and the protection of 395 acres of woods. This has been done over the 5-year period since 1950, when the program was first established in Madison County.

So it may be that the Yearbook of Agriculture in 2,055 may record the survival of some "rose living fence" planted in 1955, but first reported in the Patent Office report of 1855.

RUSSELL PERRY in Guernsey County has always been troubled with run-off water after a heavy rain on a field above his house. The slope is relatively long and the upper part is steep. This was particularly annoying at his home which stands directly below one corner of this field. After each heavy rain, the lawn was covered with water. At times it even cut small gullies in the lawn. This excess water kept the flooded areas soft until late spring.

In the fall of 1953, a diversion terrace was laid out by the SCS technician, George W. Eikenberry. That same fall, Perry built the diversion with a tractor and grader blade. The disturbed area was well limed, fertilized, seeded and manured. "Now," says Perry, "it catches all water running off the steep slope above, carrying it to an outlet at the back part of the field."

Perry says, since building this diversion, the ground around the house has dried up completely. "We have no had any trouble getting over the field at any time of the year." He wonders why he didn't build the diversion long ago and believes most farmers have places on their farms for one or more of the structures.

He built two more last year that were laid out by Eikenberry, and intends to build another in 1955. He has been a cooperator of the Guernsey Soil Conservation District since 1945.

ONE HUNDRED SIXTY tons of grass silage from 21 acres of new meadow seeding is the record established by Noah A. Miller of the Allen County Soil Conservation District.

This is most unusual for an aftermath harvest which, in this instance included volunteer oats, alfalfa, red clover and timothy. The harvest was made during the first week in September so that the seeding had plenty of opportunity to recover before winter. As a matter of fact, Miller says his grass-legume seeding was over a foot high by Nov. 1.

Two temporary silos, one 15 x 20 and the other 16 x 22 feet, were used to store the 130 ton silage crop. According to Lee Borton, local farm planner, with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, this particular field is starting in its second cycle of a four-year rotation of corn, oats, and two years of grass-legume meadow.

"OUR CROP yields have" really increased since we installed our tile system," Francis and Clarence Clark said at a recent tiling demonstration held on their farm in Pickaway County.

Virgil Overholt, air engineer of Ohio Agricultural Extension Service; Dick Swenson, extension agent, and Don Archer of the SCS, discussed key factors in assuring success from tiling.

Points particularly emphasized were: planning the system and installation according to plan, spacing, depth, size of tile, and adequate outlets.

Everett Beers, ditching contractor, installed tile during the day as a part of the demonstration.

"THIS TILE plan, showing the location of all my present and planned tile lines, is very valuable. If I'd have a fire, I sure wouldn't want my tile blueprint to burn up. What, outside of putting these plans in a safety deposit box, can I do?" Lutrelle Lee, cooperator with the Union County Soil Conservation District, asked this question of Halsey Eleyet, farm planner for the SCS.

Eleyet suggested to Lee that he record his tile plan with his county recorder so that it can be an official supplement to the deed for the farm.

"Since Lee's tiling plan was designed scientifically by SCS engineers and since, when installed, it will involve a major cash outlay, it will be most important to Lee and to future owners to have an accurate record of location, depth, tile sizes and outlet locations," Eleyet says.

"Lee has a conservation farm plan for his entire farm. The tile plan is but one part of his farm-wide conservation plan," concludes Eleyet.

Beef Cattle Tour Plans Are Set Up

Plans for the annual beef cattle tour on March 17 today were in just about final form.

The time, the itinerary, the program and the schedule were all worked out by the committee when it met in the office of the Extension Service.

Stops are to be made at farms of four beef cattle feeders in the morning. The tourists are to have lunch together at noon in the New Holland Methodist Church and in the afternoon there is to be a general round table discussion in which some experts will take the leading roles.

Stops are to be made at the farm of W. W. Montgomery & Sons on the Snowhill pike, of Jess Schlichter, Richard Snyder and Bill Woods.

At these farms, the touring farmers and stockmen will vary methods of feeding and labor-saving devices in use.

At the afternoon to take part in the discussions will be such specialists as James Warner from Ohio State University; W. H. Rogers, who is in charge of the experiment station in Madison County; Donald Leith of Fairfield County; R. Q. Smith, the secretary of the Independent Livestock Marketing Association; H. M. Leitmaker, of the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association and Robert Haigler, of a Fayette County Hereford breeder and feeder.

On the tour committee at this planning meeting were Harold Harbourn, Jr., Bill Mace, Haigler, Joe Altemann and County Agent Montgomery.

The extreme specialization which has been achieved by lice is indicated by one type which feeds exclusively on the tears of one species of bird -- the swifts.

News and Views Of the Grange

By HERBERT PERRILL
(County Grange Deputy)

The Grange has resolutely opposed Universal Military Training from the time it was first proposed. The present Selective Training and Service Act expires in mid-1955 and efforts are already being made to establish a more completely military training structure as a permanent part of the lives of all citizens of this country.

It is proposed by many advocates of UMT, that we train all individuals and place them in the reserve forces for a six to eight year period.

Such over-emphasis of the importance of the military structure—such complete disregard of the real potential in the individual human being and of the non-military potential of a great nation, in which this sort of structure has never been a part, is almost beyond Grange comprehension.

We recognize that we have failed to be effective in building the international political and economic structure that would eliminate the dependence we must place in military might. There can be no doubt but that a certain measure of independence on such military structure is still necessary.

There can be less doubt that a morally strong, politically coherent and economically powerful United States of America is essential to the cause of freedom in the world.

We, of the Grange, realize that in times of international insecurity, we must have a Selective Service system, but that is quite different from compulsory military training.

Although many do not realize it, we actually do have a system of universal military service under the present act for there is no provision for exemption from service. According to the Public Health Administration, Society has an investment in each individual by the time he reaches 18 of $36,584.50. The return that society may expect from its investment, with the risks involved during the period of productivity, is $65,360, a net worth in excess of investment of $28,775.50.

Quite apart from the values within this human individual, which really cannot be measured in dollars, his net worth can be affected to a terrifying extent by the mental instability, the denial of freedom to plan his life and to follow that plan, and the frustrations that may be injected into it at a military age.

We believe, therefore, that we are on sound ground in our determined opposition to UMT.

The basic Grange position is threefold: (1) I believe in our traditional incentive system, allowing the freest possible opportunity for young people to pursue their interests in accordance with the benefits offered; (2) we will win the lasting peace that we seek not entirely by military might, but also by the wisest possible use of our total manpower in the interest of an expanding total capacity to produce and (3) we are afraid of the total military indoctrination that comes with Universal Conscription.

If followed to its logical conclusion, one would see that it gradually leads to a police-garrison state. The soldier and the political policeman rise to power, while the institutions of civilian society and freedom shrink.

In the name of defense and security, channels of public information dry up—the press becomes a mere purveyor of official hand-outs.

Cut off from significant information, editors, commentators and group leaders become less accurate in their judgment; the process of public discussion stagnates; political parties decline; the power of Congress dwindles; the administration by civilians shrinks relative to administration in uniform; the courts weaken; cut off from information, the power of the citizen fades.

Decisions gradually come to be made by are all powerful government and all freedom is in jeopardy.

This is the road we must try not to follow during the next few years.

Farm Loan Meeting Here on Wednesday

Three directors are to be elected and the complete report on the year's business made at the annual stockholders meeting of the Farmers National Farm Loan Association at the Country Club here Wednesday noon.

Richard Whiteside, the secretary of the three-county district, which has its office here, said around 150 were expected at the meeting and the turkey dinner that is to precede it.

Stockholders are to be at the meeting from Fayette, Clinton and Madison counties, Whiteside said.

One of the directors to be elected is to be a resident of Fayette County and two are to be residents of Clinton County. Terms of Madison County representatives on the board continue through at least another year.

Faulty Tillage Cost Farmers Many Millions

Preparing Seedbed One Of The Vital Phases Misused

Faulty tillage costs Ohio farmers millions of dollars each year, John Slipper, Ohio State University extension soil conservationist, said today.

Repeatedly running machinery over a field in seedbed preparation packs soil, plugs soil pores, breaks down desirable soil structure and slows aeration and root penetration. That will reduce yields and increase production costs per acre and per bushel, the specialist stated.

Farmers can prepare a finished seedbed with minimum tillage and cost by using a rotary hoe, spring tooth harrow, spike tooth harrow or other smoothing implement after plowing.

Slipper urged farmers to allow at least 2 days of dry weather curing after plowing before further tillage. This allows time for soil crumbs to harden by drying and become rugged. Hitching a harrow alongside a plow destroys structure of uncured crumbs, he added.

For best development of soil structure, soil organic matter content should be at least 3 percent on light colored soils and 5 percent on dark soils. Soil tests show organic matter content.

Farmers can provide soil organic matter by turning under green manure and other crop residues. Fertilizer increases root growth that adds to soil organic matter too. Nitrogen fertilizers favor normal decomposition of crop residues and speed nitrogen release in the soil, Slipper added.

Mild-action tillage combined with a fertilizer program based on soil tests gives most efficient crop production and highest profits per acre, the specialist pointed out.

Tree Replacements Are Very Essential

Vernon Patterson, Ohio State University extension horticulturist, advises fruit growers to plan tree replacements, and new plantings while they enjoy leafing through the mid-winter deluge of nursery catalogues.

Buying young trees to replace old ones is a sound practice in keeping the business young, he says. Growers with at-the-farm markets often find it practical to diversify their business by planting a variety of fruits. They can plan this too while they scan a catalogue.

Patterson encourages growers to try new varieties, but suggests they check Ohio recommendations before buying. Many varieties have been tested at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and growers can avoid disappointment by learning what these tests show.

Ohio research circular 21, available from the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio, gives results of variety tests.

Drought Damage Cut By Use of Fertilizer

Drought damage was cut down considerably on Kansas wheat fields that were fertilized for the 1954 crop, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing a recent statement by Dr. Floyd Smith, soils specialist of Kansas State College.

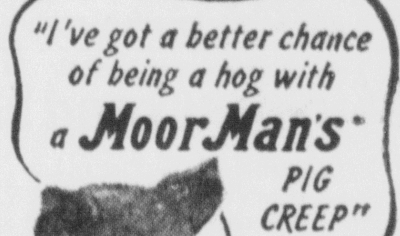

Wheat yields on fertilized fields averaged 39 bushels per acre, compared to 26 bushels on unfertilized fields, according to Smith's studies.

"This extra 13 bushels from the fertilized fields," said Smith, "gave farmers a return of $2.50 for every dollar they invested in soil improvement."

Excessively hot, dry weather hampered wheat growing operations in many parts of Kansas last season, Smith reports.

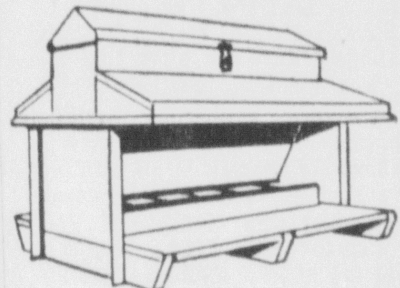

"But in spite of these unfavorable conditions," he said, "the wheat response to phosphate and potash fertilizer was fabulous. Nitrogen fertilizer nearly doubled wheat yields in North Central Kansas."

Smith said that for high yields and rapid growth, wheat needs plant nutrients in quickly available form from the soil. To make sure the soil can provide those nutrient supplies, Smith advises farmers to have their soil tested and then follow the recommendations for the use of nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

February Points To Great Historic Lessons

One thing stands out unmistakably in the month of February in the matter of rekindling the patriotic fervor of the citizens of this nation: That is, the fact that this month carries with it the birthday anniversaries of two of our greatest men of history, Lincoln and Washington.

As the years roll on, our perspective view of these illustrious national figures of the past is undimmed; in fact it grows brighter as we note the urgent problems of Lincoln's and Washington's time of public duty. Our problems today are certainly no greater, perhaps less.

The luster which history gives to the life of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday comes before that of Washington this month, grows brighter when we recall the patriotic wisdom of our nation's founding fathers in establishing this republic, and the zeal with which Lincoln, and so many others, sought to perpetuate the principles upon which it was built.

Outstanding in Lincoln's life was his simplicity and honesty; in his great understanding heart and his determination to hold together a nation, torn and bleeding with strife, is being stressed at this time.

As our schools and many other organizations recognize this in various types of programs to commemorate this anniversary, it is to be hoped that the lessons brought forth in such reviews will bring to those who now hold places of responsibility an unchangeable determination to see that nothing is done in any way to weaken the great principles of this government; one which has grown and prospered because its people enjoy freedom and are responsible for their own governing instead of being subjected to abject obeisance to autocratic rulers or to the whims of any despotic tyrant.

The Answer

With little attempt to understand the why of it, some nations look upon our achievement of the world's highest standard of living as a stroke of luck.

It isn't, of course. We have worked hard, risked much, produced much—the growth factor of our economy averages about 3 percent a year. We have been able to produce more because of constant new technological developments, investments in new factories, management ability and employee skills.

We were once an underdeveloped country ourselves—we give our success-formula to any country that will accept it. And to maintain and strengthen it here at home, we can hope and work toward a long-range "tax program for economic growth" which will diminish present tax rate unfairnesses and at the same time encourage economic growth and development.

Men Best Food Shoppers?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—There has been a quiet revolution in the American family's food buying habits.

Wives may select most of their husbands' clothing, but more and more husbands now do the grocery shopping. They have to. It's the only way they can get what they want to eat.

"About a third of the sales in the average supermarket now are made to husbands who do the family food shopping alone," estimates Frank Packard, "and another third to husbands and wives who shop together."

Packard, a cherubic, well-fed businessman who gallivants about the country in his own private plane, operates a pioneer supermarket at Hackensack, N.J., which for many years claimed it did the biggest food business under one roof of any store in America. This was before Texas started building supermarkets.

His long experience has led Packard to develop an interesting theory about women. They simply don't have as good taste as men in food.

"I've never heard of any great professional women tea or coffee tasters or chefs either," he said. "A man's taste for food is more glamorous than a woman's."

If you gave them a physiological test, I'm sure you'd find women's taste buds are inferior to men's. That's probably why women are inclined to overseason food.

He has found women are less adventurous than men in trying new foods. A supermarket push art brings out the Marco Polo in a man.

"Most of the free recipe leaflets are picked up by husbands, not wives," Packard said. "Men like to experiment. They are more likely to buy things like Japanese otopus, buffalo steak or canned rattlesnake meat."

"They buy the rattlesnake meat as a gag, usually to fool a friend, or startle a visiting mother-in-law. I don't know of anyone who eats rattlesnake meat regularly. At $1.50 a can it isn't exactly habit-forming."

Here are some other differences he has noted between men and women grocery shoppers:

"Women enjoy buying new clothing, but buying food is just a chore to them. They get it over as quickly and efficiently as possible. But it's fun for a man."

"Women stick strictly to the household budget in buying food. Men throw the budget overboard. Sometimes they go on such food-buying jags our clerks actually rave to discourage them.

"Children behave better when they are with their father. They never get lost and they stick close to him. But they are more used to mother. When they come in with her, they run and romp all over the store."

"Left to his own choice, a man will rarely buy fowl or fish. He'll buy beef. And he won't even go near the bakery table unless it's to get something on his wife's list."

"There's a reason for this. The psychology of food is imbedded in our language. Tell a man he's a bull, and he's flattered. Call him a cream puff, he's insulted."

Packard predicts changing food habits will doom the home-delivery milkman within 10 years because of the labor cost. He believes as fried chicken and pizza pies will hike in popularity. So will standardized, prepackaged steaks and chops.

"The trend is toward what is easier, easier, easier," he said, and added:

"There is no longer much class distinction in food buying. A low income man today brags about the quality of the meals his wife cooks. But some rich people now serve the worst food in the world. Many wealthy people don't know or appreciate good food."

American Intellectuals' Attitude

By George Sokolsky

It used to be that Americans were just Americans. That was before we became so class conscious that we want labels to describe ourselves as different from others. It is difficult to define those who call themselves intellectuals. For instance, Dr. J. B. Matthews whom the intellectuals describe as an anti-intellectual has as many degrees from a variety of universities as his adversaries; he has worked in 17 languages which is an accomplishment for any learned man; he translated the Methodist Hymnal into Malay; he worked as a geographical researcher in Africa. Does all that make him an intellectual or just a scholar?

I cite him as an example as one who cannot be described as a man without learning; yet the intellectuals would deny him their American intellectual as follows:

"It is certainly true that in recent years—say the last ten—American intellectuals have considerably, even radically, revised their attitude toward America. It is no longer the case, as it once used to be that an avowed aloofness from national feeling is the young intellectual's first ceremonial step into the life of thought."

Why was it ever, if it is not now so, that the American intellectual asserted his intellectualism by an antagonism to American nationalism which is the summa of American tradition and history? Why was this country so unsatisfactory to the intellectual? What had it done to annoy him? Professors Trilling's explanation may be correct. He says:

"A prime reason for the change in the American intellectual's attitude toward his nation is of course America's new relation with the other nations of the world. Even the most disaffected American intellectual must nowadays respond, if only in the way of personal interest, to the growing isolation of his country amid the hostility which is directed against it. He has become aware of the virtual uniqueness of American security and well-being, and, at the same time, of the danger in which they stand. Perhaps for the first time in his life, he has associated his native land with the not inconsiderable advantages of a whole skin, a full stomach, and the right to wag his tongue as he pleases."

The right "to wag his tongue" as he pleases has always been anyone's right here. Are we to believe that these great mentalities who call themselves intellectuals did not realize their privilege until recently? Did they know anything about their own country or were they dreamers of "the ideal of the bright cosmopolis of artists and thinkers, usually localized in Paris" or in Moscow?

In a country of low literacy and class differences, the man who can read and write stands out as separate from the rest of the population. He is a man of distinction. In the middle ages in Europe, he usually entered the church. He became a clerk. The Church offered the democratic way for advancement because a lowly cleric could rise to high position by sheer ability in a class-conscious society. In a country like China where the written word was cherished, those who passed the civil service because they could read the classics and write poetry could rise in government service. A Hanlin scholar, some thing like our Ph.D.'s but more so, cut a very significant figure. All doors were open to his advancement and if he added common sense to his scholarship, no office was closed to him.

The advance of technology added to craftsmanship altered the attitude of men toward the scholar and equalized him with others who might not be so literate. Thomas Edison, for instance, had no schooling, no Ph.D., could not have been qualified by any university to teach physics but he produced a civilization by the application of physical science to commodities for living. The same was true of countless men in different fields.

In the eyes of the American people, these untutored men gained a currency as noble as that of a scholar who compared San-crit roots with Greek roots and came up with a racial theory that in a century exploded in the ideas of Hitler and Rosenberg. The printed word seemed no nobler than the electric light bulb. And we paid better wages to those who made the motion picture machine flicker. Mere scholarship suffered in public esteem in an era which substituted pragmatism for moral absolutes.

Diet and Health

Eggs Are Important To Menu For Baby

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

The yolk of an egg is an important part of your baby's diet if he is six months old or older. Egg yolks are rich in minerals and vitamins.

Give Yolk Only

As a rule I suggest that only the yolk be given to infants under one year of age.

When your infant is about six months old, give him one-fourth of a teaspoonful of egg yolk. The egg may be raw, soft or hard boiled, coddled or poached.

If the yolk is hard boiled, your baby can digest it easier and it is less likely to upset him. And easy way to give him a hard boiled egg yolk is to mash it into his cereal.

Giving Raw Yolk

If you give the yolk raw, or in one of the other forms you can also mix it with his cereal, give it to him from a spoon or add it to his milk mixture.

Egg yolk will not agree with all babies. In some it causes a skin rash or vomiting. If this is the case with your baby, you should, of course, stop giving it to him. Then resume feeding him yolks by the time he is about ten months old.

Generally, though your baby will get along pretty well with yolks, and you can increase the amount you give him by one-quarter of a teaspoonful every other day. Maintain this schedule until he is getting a whole yolk each day.

A Whole Egg

When he is about one year old you can give him both the yolk and the white of the egg. On the first day, give him only a small portion of the white, along with the yolk. If this agrees with him increase the amount gradually until he is getting a whole egg. If the white does not agree with him, discontinue it, and try again in about three to six months with small amounts.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Mrs. P. Q.: What is the cause of complete fatigue?

Answer: Fatigue may be due simply to improper health habits, such as over work.

The common cause is an infection somewhere in the body, such as in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses or gall bladder. Disturbances of the glands of internal secretion may be responsible. Anemia is a cause.

A thorough examination by the physician is necessary to find the cause of the trouble.

HST Backs Human Rights Campaign

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman told the National Conference of Christians and Jews last night "we must strive abroad, as well as at home, to defend human rights."

The former President said suppression of freedom in various parts of the world threatens "to undo the slow and hard-won achievements of civilization. It is only the people of religious faith throughout the world who have the power to overcome the force of tyranny. It is in their beliefs that the path can be found to justice and freedom."

MRS. BERNARD SCHNEES of Delaware, O., has been advised by doctors that her son, Douglas Lee (held by a nurse's aide), born Jan. 28, will have a twin about March 22. Her physician, who predicted the date for the birth of the second twin, said the delayed birth makes the case one of the rarest in medical history. With Mrs. Schnees, 35, are her husband, holding Roger, 14 months; Beverly Karen, 2, and Bernard, Jr., 4. Douglas was born prematurely. (International Soundphotos)

Value Of Formosa Outlined

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON — "How can President Eisenhower say that such a remote island as Formosa is 'vital' or 'essential' to the military defense of the United States?" inquires M. F., of Berkeley, Calif.

Answer—From even a military standpoint, Formosa is neither "vital" nor "essential." Besides our Air and Naval bases in Japan, we have built Okinawa into a virtual Gibraltar. We also have other outlying possessions in that immediate area.

It is important, however, its loss would break the continuity of the island frontier in the Far Pacific, which extends from Japan in a semicircle to Australia. Firmly lodged there, the Red Chinese could use it as a base of air and naval operations against the rest of our wall.

Moreover, as a military strategist and tactician, Ike knows that the farther away we can keep the enemy, the greater opportunity we have of victory in a showdown.

ASSET — But Formosa has a great psychological asset, according to Secretary John Foster Dulles. That is a consideration which underlies our insistence that it remain in friendly Chinese hands.

Formosa stands as a symbolic homeland to the 15 million Chinese people living abroad, especially to the 12 million estimated to be residing in Southeast Asia and India. As of today, they are anti-Communist, for they compose the trading and propertied class in that key sector.

These Chinese are especially important to this area's economy, having about 40 per cent of industry and commerce, including tin and rubber holdings, in their control. It is essential that the key Chinese in this warehouse of strategic war materials be oriented toward Chiang Kai-shek rather than toward Mao Tse-tung.

"I note," writes C. A. H., of Bridgeport, Conn., "that we are going to convert butter into ghee, and then sell it to Asiatic countries, principally India. Will you tell me how many pounds of butter it takes to make a pound of ghee, and also what the Indian government is going to pay for each pound of ghee?"

Answer: We will lose by this deal, if it goes through. The amount of ghee derived from a pound of butter varies, depending upon the condition of the original product. I understand, however, that the nonuseable portion—that is, the non-gheeist part—is quite small. Melt a pound, and find out.

COST—These facts may help to calculate the cost to us. The government paid an average of 64 cents a pound for the 260 million pounds now in storage. To process it into ghee will cost about four cents a pound. Asiatic purchasers will probably pay about 30 cents a pound, although the figure may run as low as 25 cents.

However, there are offsetting factors. Storage costs are terrific, especially for this relatively delicate product. There will be a great loss from spoilage, unless we get rid of it. It remains as a burden upon the domestic butter market.

Finally, it may help us to win instead of lose friends from the Suez Canal to the China Sea. It will demonstrate that the United States can send them butter as well as guns, which is something that Moscow cannot do.

"Can you tell me," asks E.H.G. of Ontario, Calif., "if Gen. George Marshall is one of those advising President Eisenhower in this latest appeasement of Red China?"

Answer: President Eisenhower does not regard his present policy as "appeasement." He has set the precedent of drawing a line beyond which the U. S. will not retire, preferring to fight.

Eisenhower's policy is a repudiation of Marshall's. On Marshall's return from his mission to China, where he failed to unite Nationalists and Communists, he advised that all aid be withdrawn from Chiang Kai-shek. It was a fatal blunder, for it helped to turn the main land over to the Reds.

Garden Club
Members Meet
With Mrs. Stitt

The Fayette Garden Clubs Friday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. George Stitt, had a spring-like theme which was a sharp contrast to the zero weather prevailing.
A paper entitled "Hints For February," by Mrs. Ernest Brookover, outlined many chores that can be done now in the planning of next summer's garden, also some work that could be accomplished with the weather permitting.
"Wild Flowers" was the topic of an equally interesting paper by Mrs. C. S. Kelley, in which she described some of the varieties of wild flowers, which will be blooming in from four to six weeks.
Among the important coming events announced by the president, Mrs. Ansel W. Kirkpatrick, president, were an invitation from the Busy Bee Garden Club, for an open meeting at the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, February 17, when Mrs. W. L. Hughes, regional director, of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, will be the speaker.
A meeting of the Ross County Garden Clubs to be held at the Methodist Church in Clarksburg to which all clubs of Fayette County have been invited, was also announced on May 12, Mrs. C. P. Sticksel, president of the State Association will be the principal speaker, at a meeting of all clubs of District 9, at Chillicothe.
Seed and rose catalogues were on display which created a great amount of interest.
Among the hints in Mrs. Brookover's paper were, suggestions to plan your garden now on paper; look over seed catalogues and get your orders in early; check gladioli bulbs now, she advised, and clean off soil dust with DDT and discard diseased bulbs.

She also suggested some pruning to be done now, but not rose bushes and early blooming shrubs.
Another important hint was not to plant more flowers than can be cared for as gardening can prove to be a chore instead of a pleasure.
Mrs. C. S. Kelley stated "that wild flowering is an exciting nature study that offers a pleasure of the know, the lure of the unknown and the thrill of discovery."
Mrs. Kelley's favorite spot for wild flowers in Fayette County is at Rock Mills, and she told members that the following varieties that may be found are: Spring Beauty, Anemone, Hepatica, skunk cabbage, Dog Tooth Violets, Jack-in-the Pulpit, Blood Root, Sweet William, Yellow Violets, Marsh Marigold, Crowfoot, Wild Delphiniums, Solemn's Seal, Star of Bethlehem, Dutchman's Britches and Trillium, in three colors.
With few exceptions, wild flowers are reliable in their habits and arrive on schedule in woodlands, fields and swamps, Mrs. Kelley said.
At the close of these two most interesting papers, dainty refreshments suggested of St. Valentine's Day, were served by the hostess and her committee, Mrs. Hugh Smith, Miss Emma Parrett, Mrs. Warren Bryan, Mrs. J. A. Hyer and Mrs. Claude Davis.
Romano cheese, used widely in Italian dishes, may now be obtained in six-ounce wedge-shaped portions. Grate only as much of the cheese as you are planning to serve at the time; cover the rest tightly with cellophane wrapping or aluminum foil and refrigerate until needed.

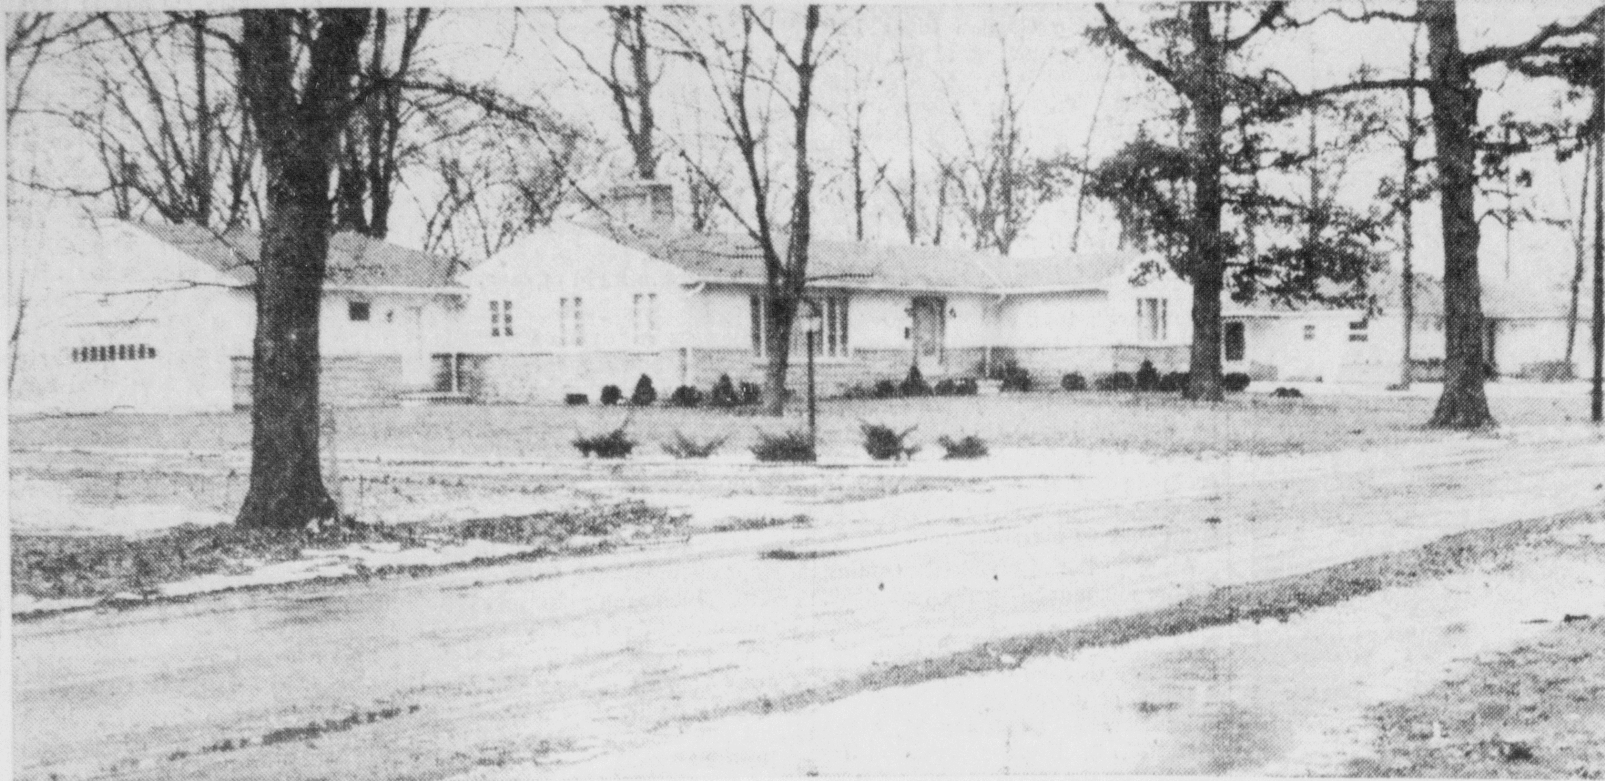

Health and freedom found
SCIENCE AND HEALTH
with Key to the Scriptures by MARY BAKER EDDY is showing multitudes of grateful men and women how to find health and freedom—how to pray the healing prayer of understanding. How to know the Truth which will "make you free," as Jesus promised. There was nothing in Christ Jesus' entire ministry which said that his healing method was for then but not for now.
Christian Science has come as the promised Comforter to restore the lost element of healing to modern religion. It shows the sick, as well as others in need of help, how to claim and have their God-given freedom from fear, sickness, and want.

Permits Show Upswing In Construction In WCH

Nobody can have helped noticing that Washington C. H. has been growing fast in recent years.

Records kept by Marie Melvin and her staff in the city auditor's office show a big spurt last year in issuance of building permits—one of the best gauges of growth. Those same records provide a few interesting sidelights on building here, too.

For example: In what month of 1954 do you think the greatest number of building permits were issued? Bet you guessed wrong: it was November. That was the top month both in total number of permits asked—24—and in the total estimated cost of building—$15,600.

Another fact uncovered was that new homes or home remodeling accounted for 85 percent of the anticipated costs of building as indicated by estimates on the permit applications. Business and commercial building made up the remainder.

The total number of permits issued for the entire year was 184, with estimates totalling a whopping 663,310, or about two thirds of a million dollars.

The permits covered all sorts of construction, from home repair jobs estimated to cost $100 or less to a permit for the building of a restaurant to cost an estimated $40,000.

But though the largest single estimate was for a commercial enterprise, the restaurant, home building or renovation accounted for most of the two-thirds of a million dollars in estimates on permits.

Permits for 54 new homes accounted for $473,800 of the estimates, and 117 permits for home remodeling boosted the total for residences to $559,510. The remaining $103,800 appeared as estimates on the 13 permits for business and commercial building.

The permits issued month by month, broken down into the three groups, are as follows:

All those permits are just for building within the city limits. But a home-building boom is definitely on just outside the city limits, too.

A casual check by the Record-Herald disclosed that two the the busy building areas have been just past the end of Washington Avenue opposite Washington C. H. and just over the city limits on Dayton Avenue.

All those houses were built in the past few years. There are 16 on right near the city limits on the Dayton pike and in the subdivision being developed by Bud Brownell opposite the cemetery there 24 new homes.

The busiest center of building, however, is within the city limits. Three adjoining new developments contain houses built in the past few years or being built right now. These three are the Belle Aire, and Country Club subdivisions along with a development between High Street and the Greenfield pike.

The three additions together contain 126 new homes, more than half of them—76—on the three street of Belle Aire. These three new subdivisions were hardly more than cow pastures five years ago.

THE BUILDING permits provide a sort of box score on home-building here:

January: New homes (4 permits issued) $21,000 costs estimated. Home renovation (2) $1,950. Business and commercial (1) $1,600. Total (7) $24,550.

February: New homes (5) $46,900. Home renovations (4) $2,100. No commercial. Total (9) $49,000.

March: New homes (4) $39,500. Home renovations (4) $2,100. No commercial. Total (8) $41,600.

April: New homes (5) $50,500. Home renovations (7) $8,260. Commercial (2) $10,000. Total (14) $68,760.

May: New homes (4) $51,000. Home renovations (13) $7,200. Commercial (2) $40,300. Total (19) $98,500.

June: New homes (3) $18,700. Home renovations (15) $12,100.

Commercial (2) $3,500. Total (20) $34,300.

July: New homes (9) $71,700. Home renovations (8) $11,050. Commercial (3) $6,800. Total (20) $89,550.

August: New homes (4) $28,500. Home renovations (12) $7,000. No commercial. Total (17) $36,200.

September: No new homes. Home renovations (15) $9,600. Commercial (1) $24,000. Total (16) $33,600.

October: New homes (2) $14,000. Home renovations (13) $8,300. No commercial. Total (15) $22,300.

November: New homes (9) $89,000. Home renovations (13) $9,100. Commercial (2) $17,500. Total (24) $115,600.

December: New homes (5) $43,000. Home renovations (10) $6,250. No commercial. Total (15) $49,250.

Totals for the year: New homes (54) $473,800. Home renovations (117) $85,710. Commercial (13) $103,800. Grand total (184) $663,310.

Lions Barely Nosed Out at Wilmington

Defense Play Almost Upsets Unbeaten Team

The Washington C. H. Lions came within a hair of cracking Wilmington's unbeaten record Friday night as they led the Hurricane through-out most of the game, only to lose in the final moments, 48 to 45.

The Lions became the 16th straight victims of the Wilmington powerhouse this season. The SCO league leaders haven't lost a game.

The game, played on the Wilmington court, marked the tremendous improvement of the Lions since the first meeting of these two teams. In their first encounter, Wilmington whipped the Lions 64 to 45 in a game that wasn't even as close as the score might indicate.

Friday, the Lions led Wilmington by as much as 12 points at one time. In the low-scoring, defensive sort of game played last night, that's a big lead. With just five minutes to play, the Lions still held an eight-point lead over the home team, but in one devastating minute, the Hurricane whipped out their lead and won ahead.

DEFENSE was a big item in the game, as the relatively low final score proves. The Lions fielded the pressing zone they have been having such good luck with this season. The Hurricane uses a man-for-man.

High scorer for WHS was Roger Whitley, whose drive-ins paid off for 14 points from the field and gave him the chance to rack up another 9 points in foul shots. His 23-point total made him the only double-figure scorer in the game.

Wilmington's Carey was second high man in the game with 17.

Phenomena shooting, both from the floor and the free-throw ring, marked the Lion's play. The boys hit on 12 of their 29 shots from the field for 41 percent and put in 21 of their 27 free throws for a scorching 77 percent.

The loss puts the WHS league record at three wins and three losses.

2 Dixie Teams Defeated By Ohio Outfits

COLUMBUS (AP) — Two southern teams suffered defeats last night on Ohio courts as Buckeye basketballers from Cincinnati and Xavier outlasted the Rebels.

The Cincinnati Bearcats, ranked 17th nationally, trounced Centenary of Louisiana 79-50, but it was Xavier's 101-83 triumph over Loyola of New Orleans that stole the spotlight.

The Musketeers handed Loyola its worst defeat on record, tying a school record of 42 field goals in the bargain.

For the Bearcats, the victory gave them a 19-3 record. It's 12-9 for Xavier.

Major Colleges To Separate Men And Boys

Rugged Schedule Due To Bring Out Best of Crop in Today's Play

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

They separate the men from the boys in five major college conference basketball races today after Brigham Young started the job last night with a 76-74 overtime upset of Utah in the Skyline.

It was a rocking defeat for Utah, ranked fifth in this week's Associated Press poll and winner of 17 of 19 games this season—including seven straight in the conference.

Tiny Terry Tebbis fired the shot that spilled the Utes, scoring with 18 seconds remaining in the overtime period. Tebbis, a 5-8 guard, took a pass from Johnny Benson and zipped past two defenders to wreak Utah's 10-game winning streak.

While the Skyline, Big Ten, Big Seven, Atlantic Coast and Southern division of the Pacific Coast have their hands full with first place battles, independent Marquette will be out to stretch its nation-leading winning streak to 18 games in a bid for a post-season tournament berth. The Warriors, ranked No. 9 in the poll, meet Bowling Green.

San Francisco, No. 1 team in the national rankings, kept the pace as the runner-up in the winning strig derby last night by making San Jose State its 16th straight victim 59-49.

The Dons and No. 2 ranked Kentucky are idle tonight.

The big conference battle shapes up at Minneapolis when first place Minnesota (6-2) tangles with Illinois, tied with Iowa for second at (5-2) in the Big Ten's TV game of the week. Iowa is at home to Indiana.

Missouri and Colorado, both once beaten in the Big Seven, meet at Boulder for first place and Maryland tries for a full share of the Atlantic Coast lead against North Carolina. Maryland is tied for first with North Carolina State and Duke, but NCS is idle and Duke leaves the league to play Navy.

North Carolina tried to make it a four-way ACC tie last night, but ran into an upset by Virginia 98-73.

In two other important conference games last night, George Washington just about wrapped up first place in the Southern as Joe Holup scored 10 points in a closing 5-minute surge to trim Richmond 7-62, and UCLA gained a foothold in the Pacific Coast's southern division race by beating Stanford 85-63. The Uclans and Stanford will be at it again tonight.

Elsewhere last night, South Carolina bottled up high-scoring Dickie Hemm for a scant 13 points, but Lowell Davis took over with 31 as Wake Forest won 90-81 in an ACC game. Princeton beat Brown 57-55 on John Devoe's layup with 5 seconds left, and Columbia defeated Dartmouth 63-51 in a pair of Ivy League tussles.

Connecticut romped over New Hampshire 103-85. Cincinnati won its 10th straight in a 79-50 decision over Centenary of Louisiana. Pittsburgh was beaten by Puerto Rico 74-70.

Other major results: Seton Hall 88 Boston College 56; Xavier (Ohio) 101 Loyola of the South 83; Utah State 72 Colorado A&M 66; Montana State 63 Colorado State 57; Denver 74 Montana 68; Washington 76 Washington State 40; Idaho 65 Oregon 50; California 58 Southern California 57.

ern Reserve. Four times the game was tied.

The College of Steubenville coasted to an 88-52 win over Waynesburg (Pa) with freshman center Jim Smith scoring 19 points for the victors. Steubenville has won 15 of its last 16 games.

Forward Sam Jordan sank a free throw and a field goal to snatch a last minute 55-52 victory for West Virginia State over Central State. Jordan's foul tied the game at 51-51. His goal and another by guard George Mills broke the tie.

Hiram's Terriers defeated Otterbein 82-78 in an Ohio Conference game, and Fenn took the lead away from Cedarville in the last 10 minutes to win 7-73. Ohio U's junior varsity defeated Bliss 87-76.

Tigers Win Final Game To Tie for County Title With Bloomingburgers

The Jeffersonville Tigers took an easy 79-51 win over Madison Mills at Jeffersonville Friday to end their regular season schedule in a tie for the Fayette County League title with Bloomingburg. Bloomingburg had finished its league schedule with 5 wins and 1 loss prior to Friday night.

Jeffersonville, which went into Friday night's game with a 4-1 league record, needed a victory to tie for first place. Making good use of their height advantage, the Tigers got off to a fast start, led 26-13 at the end of the first quarter and were never headed.

Their victory set the stage for a do-or-die struggle with the Bloomingburg Bulldogs in the first game of the county tourney Tuesday night at Washington C. H. High School. The league co-champions have split in two previous encounters. Jeffersonville won 61-48 on Dec. 17, and Bloomingburg bounced back to win 76-66 on Feb. 4. The victory over Madison Mills Friday gave the Jeffs a 10-6 record for regular season play.

Marvin Smith paced the Tiger attack against Madison Mills Friday with 25 points. Hannah was not far behind with 20. Roger Mason and Wright chipped in 14 and 10 points respectively.

Bob Caudill, the Warrior jump shot artist, poured in 26 points on 10 field goals and 6 fouls to take scoring honors for the night. Both teams made good on 19 foul shots.

The Jeffersonville Reserves made it a clean sweep for the home team by taking a 47-39 win over the Madison Mills reserves. Bill Weaver, Jim Smith, Larry Garringer, and Alva Hanners scored 10 points each for the junior Tigers.

The same two teams—from New Holland and Monroe—will meet again in the Pickaway County tournament Monday at Circleville.

Large went on a rampage for the Bulldogs in Friday night's game to score 10 field goals and 5 free throws for a total of 25 points. Jacobs, with 15 points, was second in the team's scoring in which eight of the Bulldogs had a hand.

The New Hollanders pushed out into an 8-11 lead in the first period and were never in danger after that.

There were not many backers of either team on the sidelines, chiefly because of the cold and slippery roads. One of the loyal followers expressed the general sentiment when he commented with a wry grin: "Only dunks go out on a night like this."

The New Holland Reserves also won their game: they beat the Monroe Reserves, 57 to 33, in the preliminary.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League announced Alan (The Horse) Ameche, their No. 1 draft pick, signed a 2-year contract.

No salary details were announced. Ameche, All-America fullback for Wisconsin and Heisman Trophy winner, said the Colt offer compared favorably with that of Canadian football interests.

Anthony's Lose Practice Game

Sedalia Substitutes For Salt Creek Team

The Salt Creek cage team couldn't keep its date with the Good Hope Mad Anthony's Friday evening, so a practice game with Sedalia filled the hole in the Wayne boys' schedule. Sedalia won 62 to 50.

"All the Salt Creek boys are sick," Good Hope Coach Dean Waddell explained.

The substitution was rigged up at the last moment. Good Hope had traveled to Sedalia for a pre-season scrimmage and Sedalia returned the favor Friday evening, playing on the Good Hope court.

Although the game was played in regulation quarters, it wasn't a game that will go on the record. Both teams were missing a few of their players, apparently due to the same ailment that laid the Salt Creek boys low.

SEDALIA started off by running away from the Wayne team altogether. At the end of the first period, the score was 26 to 8. But Good Hope slowly battled their way out from under until they were only a dozen points behind the visitors as the final whistle blew. Score: 62 to 50, which actually left the Wayne boys closer to their opponents than they had been at the end of the first quarter.

Bill Herman, playing his first game in weeks, rolled up 19 points to become top scorer for the home team. High scorer for the game was Sedalia's Henry with 30 points.

The Wayne junior high team beat Sedalia's juniors in overtime, 33 to 30. Kenny Mossbarger was high man for Good Hope, putting in 18 points. Strouth, Thompson, Mick, Knisley, Newman, Hoppes, Gekling and Smith also played for the Good Hope juniors.

Kids from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the Good Hope school were split into six teams; three played on each side in a 20-minute game that was a "thriller," the coaches said.

Carter, Saxton Battle To Draw

BOSTON (AP) — Lightweight king Jimmy Carter loomed today as a real threat to welterweight champion Johnny Saxton after battling to a rugged 10-round draw with Boston welter Tony De Marco in a non-title bout at Boston Garden.

The 31-year-old Carter, who has just about run out of opponents in his own division, made his invasion of the welter class against a worthy rival in De Marco.

Tony gave up height, reach and ring experience, but had the edge in age and weight. De Marco, 23, scaled 142½ to Carter's 138½.

Johnson Collects KO Over Andrews

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold Johnson threw the perfect punch—a right to Paul Andrews' chin—and kindled hopes of another shot at Archie Moore's light heavyweight title.

After Johnson's one-punch knockout of Andrews, the 2 to 1 favorite, in 1:46 of the sixth round last night at Madison Square Garden, the wheels started turning for another Johnson-Moore match.

When Johnson won a 10-round decision over Andrews last March 17 he got off the floor after a first round knockdown. He didn't have to come from behind this time.

Father and Son Banquet Given

Masonic Event Draws 150 Despite Cold

A big crowd of Masons and their sons and guests braved the cold and the slippery roads Friday evening to attend the annual fathers and sons banquet at Masonic Hall. Some 150 were present for the dinner and a program of awards, speakers and motion pictures.

High point of the evening was the award of 25-year medals to seven members. Worshipful Master Paul Mohr awarded the medals to Sam Parrett and Chester Dunn.

Others who earned the medals but were not present to receive them were W. J. Hilly, Roby Price, Clovis Graves, H. C. Kendall of Dayton and Bernard R. Davis of Welsely Hills, Mass.

Other awards included the presentation of a past master pin to Harold Moats. Moats is the immediate predecessor of Paul Mohr as master of the Lodge.

Richard Rankin, who served as master of ceremonies for the evening, announced two dates for Masons to mark on their March calendars. The first, March 17, will be the date of the annual Commandery session.

On March 26, a special ceremony will be held for the conferring of the Master Mason degree. The degrees will be conferred in Kentucky from by a visiting team from the Louisa, Ky. Lodge.

Chief speaker was Mack Sauer, well-known lecturer, editor, and humorist. Sauer rattled off jokes and a more serious talk on the theme of brotherhood, keeping his audience interested and laughing throughout.

The final event of the evening was the showing of two films on hunting, shown by Irvin Patrick, game protector.

General chairman for the evening was Walter Heath.

1 Below Zero Friday Night

Friday night with an official reading of one below zero, was one of the coldest nights here in a long time and may be followed by another night equally cold.

The mercury stood at 32 degrees early Friday, but the sharp drop came within a few hours and the mercury skidded to 2 degrees above zero around 3 P. M. but rose to 6 above zero by 4:30 P. M.

The roads and streets except where salted, have been very hazardous as result of the packed snow and ice, but the 4-inch snow which fell Thursday night has afforded needed protection to the wheels.

The mercury was not expected to climb much Saturday and Sunday also is scheduled to be almost equally as cold.

Judge W. A. Lovell Sworn In Friday

Probate Court Judge Robert L. Brubaker Friday at 4 P. M. administered the oath of office to the new Municipal Court Judge William A. Lovell. Lovell had been appointed Friday morning to fill the post here for a short time, until other arrangements can be made.

City Manager James F. Parkinson, Common Pleas Judge John P. Case and a few others were present for the brief ceremony and congratulated the new judge.

Killer Hunted After Escape

Law enforcement officers have been notified to be on the lookout for Frank Case, 64, sentenced from Highland County in 1939, to serve a life sentence in the Ohio Penitentiary. He walked away from the London Prison Farm some time after midnight Tuesday.

Frank Case

Case was sentenced for the first degree murder of Janie Richmond, at her farm home near Hillsboro. He was also charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Daniel Setty, near Sinking Springs, but was never tried on the charge.

Officers recall that Case threatened to kill the officials and witnesses who had any connection with his case and he is regarded as a dangerous man.

Sportsmen's Meeting Is Open to Everyone

Officers — and the members, too — of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association today were spreading around the word that they would like to see a big turnout of sportsmen, regardless of whether or not they are members of the association, at Monday night's meeting.

This meeting is to be held in the Dayton Power & Light Co. Auditorium and is to start at 8 o'clock. Most of the previous meetings have been held in Farm Bureau auditorium.

Highlight of the meeting will be two sound motion pictures in color of wildlife. One of them is entitled "Gunning the Flyways," a film devoted to bird shooting, principally wild ducks and geese. The other is "A Place To Hunt," which depicts just what the title signifies.

Members of the committee said they felt certain these pictures would be of interest to anyone but especially so to a sportsman.

No Flags Out; Ice To Blame

The flags which normally are placed at the curb in front of the many stores and business places in the city on national holidays, were not in evidence Friday.

Officials of the American Legion which sponsors the Boy Scout troop notified the boys early that, due to the cold weather and the freezing of the caps which cover the sockets, it would be impossible to put out the flags.

Handling and storing the American flag is the chief fund raising project of the Legion sponsored scout troop. Flags would have been put up in memory of Lincoln's Birthday.

Future Teachers Have Valentine Program

The Future Teachers Club at Washington C. H. High School held a Valentine party and discussed their chapel project during their last meeting. Programs for the year were distributed.

Louise Stewart called the meeting to order and Shirley Griffith read the minutes. Mrs. Grillo, club advisor, assisted in games, during which valentines were distributed. Mary Ann and Kathryn Hackett were awarded gifts.

Hereford Breeders Get Together

At Dinner Before Four Star Sale

Despite the zero cold and the lippy roads, 125 Hereford breeders, their wives and invited guests, nearly all of them from outside Fayette County, gathered for a roast beef dinner at the Country Club here Friday evening and they talked about their favorite subject — beef cattle, namely Herefords.

The dinner, which was held in an atmosphere of relaxed and friendly informality, has come to be an annual affair as the prelude to the Four Star Hereford sale that is to be held Saturday in the sales pavilion at the Fairground here.

Ray Brandenburg, one of the Four Star consignors and originators of the sale, acted as the toastmaster.

He introduced the other four consignors: Sam B. Marting and his son, Sam, Jr., of Bea Mar Farm here; George Dillon, master of Car-Dill Farms at Maysville, Ky.; Art Bumpus of the Bumpus Hereford Farm in McDhoning; Homer L. McCoy and his son, Langdon (Corky) McCoy of the Good Hope Pike.

Brandenburg also introduced Will Braun, his partner in the Elray Farm operations at Buena Vista. A few remarks were made when they were introduced by L. P. McCann of the American Hereford Association; Forrest Fenn of the American Hereford Journal; Wilbur L. McCoy, president of the Ohio Hereford Association; Carl H. Shanks, secretary of the Ohio Hereford Association and Sam Marting, the manager of the sale.

WITHOUT exception, all of these touched on the advances that have been made in the Hereford breeding program and that during the past year Hereford sales have held the high averages consistently.

Robert Terhune, president of the Chamber of Commerce, complimented the Four Star Sale consignors and repeated what other speakers had said about Fayette County growing from the Herefordshire of Ohio into the Herefordshire of American.

Hobbyists Plan For Guest Night

Enjoyable Session Friday Night

Fifteen members of the Fayette County Hobby Club some coming from the extreme ends of the county braved the zero weather to the meeting of the society held at the City Building Friday night.

As usual, an elaborated covered dish supper was enjoyed before the society went into its business session, and was followed by display of unusual articles.

Vice-President Roscoe White-side, of Paint Township, presided in the absence of President Nathaniel Tway, who is a member of the jury in the John Southward murder case.

At business session plans were made for the "guest night" meeting of the society to be held in the Dayton Power and Light Co. auditorium, Friday, March 18, at 7 P. M.

Mrs. J. W. Briggs was appointed chairman of arrangements and authorized to select her own committee of assistants. She selected Mrs. Tom Stultz, Mrs. Esther Hyer and Mrs. Jane Welland.

Mrs. Briggs and her committee was authorized to purchase what additional food was deemed advisable to add to the covered dish supper.

Every member may invite one or more guests, providing they take sufficient food for the guests, and all members are urged to take exhibits of unusual articles, old or new, and to help make this feature an outstanding one, according to the plans.

The session was a thoroughly enjoyable one, after the business session, a number of interesting topics were discussed and a social hour enjoyed.

There will be no more crowding at the doors to the courtroom where John Southward is on trial for the first degree murder of his wife, Ruth.

Judge John P. Case issued new instructions for controlling the spectators after a woman had been crushed against one of the doors so hard the glass in it was broken prior to the opening of court Friday afternoon.

Judge Case, who sharply reprimanded those responsible for the incident at the court room door Friday afternoon, has instructed Sheriff Orland Hays to have all spectators lined up, single file, on the double stairway and in the lower corridor, and when the court room doors are opened the two files will enter the court room forming abreast until the seats are filled.

No standing will be permitted in the courtroom, as usual.

At the U. S. airbase at Thule, Greenland, men see the sun for the first time in four months each February and in April they start four months of perpetual daylight.
